3. You can download the audios of the words with the link at the bottom of the post.

Vocabulary Tip:

Linguists, tutors, psychologists all agree on this: vocabulary learning success does not just depend on the strategy you follow.

Actually, there is no the 'best' strategy!

Different strategies must be adopted depending on the situation. A learner taking a language course and another learner living abroad where the target language is spoken should follow different strategies.

The chemistry of learning a word is affected by various things: effort, interest, learning environment, cultural association, exposure to that word, availability of practicing the word. You may not learn to speak Spanish as fast as an Italian or a Portuguese. Cultural association, having a common ancient language or religion, all this matters. You need to consider these when considering a learning strategy. So, never believe a person or a website that offers everyone the same 'best' or 'most effective' or 'faster' language learning system. Every learner needs to take different methods and strategies depending on the situation.
