Translation

Antoni: Hello

Paula: Hello, how are you?

Antoni: I'm fine. Thank you. How are you? (formal)

Paula: I'm fine, too. I am a little nervous/excited.

Antoni: Are you nervous/excited? Why?

Paula: Yes because today is the first Turkish lesson.

Antoni: Ah... sure. My name is Antoni, by the way. What is your name?

Real Estate Agency : I’ll call tonight. Good luck in advance.

Grammar Notes

When learning first words and phrases in a foreign language, learners do not need to learn about grammar. It's expected from them to memorize the common words such as hello or how are you?.

So, in this lesson, you are not supposed to learn the grammar structures because they'll be covered in depth in the later lessons. But we wanted to show you anyway so you can understand the logic of Turkish.

The meaning of the verb 'to be' is given by attaching suffixes. Each personal pronoun has its own suffix.

iyiyim	iyisin	iyi	iyiyiz	iyisiniz	iyiler
I'm good	You're good	He's good She's good It's good	We're good	You're good (plural)	They're good

Nasılım?	Nasıl-sın?	Nasıl?	Nasılız?	Nasıl-sınız?	Nasıllar?
How am I?	How are you?	How is he? How is she?	How are we?	How are you?	How are they?
